'Mermer Guitars' incorporate tonewoods and materials of the highest quality. All woods are dried and well seasoned prior to their use. Although several species of "exotic" woods may be used, an effort is made to obtain these materials from trees that have fallen as a result of natural phenomenon (i.e., wind, erosion, etc.). In addition, 'sustainable yield' materials are used whenever possible. Each instrument is individually designed and built, incorporating features that will enhance the instrument's musical performance and playability. This is what distinguishes my instruments from more conventional mass produced products. An aesthetically pleasing form and tone are the hallmarks of my instrument designs.

As I design and build each instrument for an individual, I guarantee satisfaction. I stand behind each of my instruments with a 'limited' lifetime warranty to the original owner against defective materials and workmanship. This warranty is based on what would be considered typical playing conditions and does not cover normal wear, damage as a result of misuse or accident, damage as a result of changing climactic conditions, or unauthorized alteration. Please remember that this instrument is made of wood, and that wood 'moves' as a result of changing climactic conditions. Please keep your instrument in a sturdy case when not in use, and always in climactic conditions that YOU would be comfortable in (not many people would be comfortable in a hot car trunk, a cold and damp basement, or extreme low or high relative humidity). An RH of 40 to 60% is ideal. Please note that the 'limited' lifetime warranty does not extend to the instrument's finish. All my finishes are warranted for a period of one year from the date of purchase.

Thank you for purchasing a 'Mermer' guitar. I hope that your instrument will bring you a lifetime of pleasure. Enjoy!

Sincerely,

Richard Mermer, Jr.
